Group Discussion about Convey Data	Highlights: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Short 1st person accounts and anecdote stories about drug use in the Valley were shared, especially around libraries and Fall City. ▪ SA > suggested needle receptacles yield a mixed benefit: increased public safety due to non-littered needles, but attracting more users merely by their presence ▪ LB> KCLS deals with deviant behaviors in one of two ways: a 1 year ban from the library or file a Trespass. ▪ SA > numerous calls/day about loitering, # 1 citizen complaint ▪ “All the kids doing heroine” was a misperception the group thought was growing ▪ Need for more systemic resources than just Healthy Youth Survey ▪ SA > drug use typically links to more criminal behavior (e.g. burglary) ▪ SA > a significant challenge is about prosecution or lack thereof. An example of a recent arrest of an individual with numerous burglaries and possession of a weapon was given, yet this individual has not been prosecuted. “Laws don’t support prosecution.” ▪ What can be done to curb substance abuse? 2 pronged approach: Family parent education and law enforcement to back it up. ▪ SA > 911 is the best way to invoke police services. If the call is not a 911 emergency, the call is redirected to a local dispatcher. All data is collected here. 	N/A

Potential Next Steps	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ How to satisfy a clear and accurate summary of actual incident reporting across the Valley was more unknown than known to the group. Thus, both the need for and the question of how to accomplish 'unified reporting' is a potential takeaway for more investigation. ▪ 911 education: efforts to improve public use of 911. Nancy offered to write an educational piece about 911 in the next issue of Fall City Neighbors. The SVCN and local newspapers are other outreach possibilities too. 	N/A
